RetailMeNot.com Issues Holiday 2012 Research Paper on OctoNovemCember™

4 in 10 U.S. Consumers Start Holiday Shopping Before November

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 4, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- RetailMeNot.com (www.retailmenot.com), the largest online coupon site in the United States, today released a white paper examining consumer purchasing trends and suggestions for merchant promotional offers that will drive sales and savings for the 2012 holiday shopping season.

The paper, which provides an overview of research conducted in the last year by RetailMeNot and other partners like Ipsos Public Affairs, demonstrates how a significant number of consumers, fueled by a still challenging economy, are shopping earlier for the holidays.

"Welcome to the shopping season of OctoNovemCember™, where nearly 40% of consumers begin their holiday shopping before November," said Jill Balis, senior vice president, marketing, WhaleShark Media, Inc., operator of RetailMeNot.com. "Our goal is to help early shoppers understand that RetailMeNot is a place where consumers can get Black Friday deals every day as a part of the OctoNovemCember campaign."

According to research commissioned by RetailMeNot over the last year, consumers are shopping and seeking deals earlier this holiday shopping season and retailers have a significant opportunity to capture the attention and business of these deal-seeking shoppers beginning as early as October via online, in-store and mobile offers.

Highlights include:

- Nearly 4 in 10 parents with children under the age of 18 (39%) are beginning their holiday shopping prior to November.[1]
- More than 7 in 10 parents in the same group (71%) still have a dismal view of the economy, and 1 in 4 worry about being able to make all the necessary purchases in the coming months.
- We believe increased search traffic for RetailMeNot demonstrates that deal-seeking behaviors have become more of the norm within the consumer purchase cycle.
- In 2011, consumers using RetailMeNot.com reported saving more on Thanksgiving than they did on Black Friday.
- In a recent study of 1,600 RetailMeNot newsletter subscribers, more than 90% said that they are more likely to make a purchase when a coupon or deal is available. Additionally, a December 2011 survey from RetailMeNot and Ipsos Public Affairs, which studied the behaviors of the general population, showed nearly half (47%) of adults surveyed reported that they had used a printable coupon instore or a promotion code on-line when making purchases during their holiday shopping.[2]

"The reality is that holiday shopping is officially in full swing, and the chances that deal-seeking shoppers will be contained to one weekend in late November is likely a thing of the past," added Balis.
