

RetailMeNot Shoppers Trend Report: Consumers Report Spending an Average of $762 Per Person on Holiday Travel

- Nearly 1 in 4 U.S. adults have lied to avoid traveling to visit family during the holidays

- 47% say checked baggage fees on airlines is the most frustrating travel fee

- Nearly 1 in 10 Americans spend the holidays at home by themselves

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 24, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- RetailMeNot.com (www.retailmenot.com), the largest online coupon site in the United States, today announced another OctoNovemCember edition of the Shoppers Trend Report in which Americans report that holiday travel spending amongst consumers in 2012 could be robust and average $762 per person.

More than 4 in 10 adults typically travel away from home for Thanksgiving (41%) and Christmas (41%). The majority of adults traveling for the holidays plan to visit family or friends rather than go to a vacation destination. Of those who travel for Thanksgiving, 92% visit with family or friends and 8% actually take a vacation. Of those who travel for Christmas, 88% visit with family or friends and 12% actually take a vacation.

"It is clear from the survey that some adults avoid travel when possible and often use drastic measures to do so," said Trae Bodge, senior editor, RetailMeNot.com. "Our survey found more than a quarter (26%) of adults with family who live in other locales have lied to get out of taking a trip to visit their relatives. Nearly 1 in 10 (9%) say they generally spend the holidays at home alone."

Other results include:

- 50% of adults would spend $500 or more per person on travel-related costs during the holidays
- Adult consumers would spend an average of $762 per person on travel during the holidays.
- When traveling, close to half (47%) of adults find checked baggage fees the most frustrating travel fee, followed by airline fees for flight schedule changes (10%).
- Citing the financial burden, nearly half of adults (48%) would limit the number or size of gifts they pack for family/friends to avoid either shipping costs or extra airline luggage fees.
  - 36% of holiday travelers are willing to pay shipping costs to mail the gifts ahead of time.
  - 16% of travelers would bring all of their presents with them on a flight and pay the extra baggage fees.
- Despite the considerable cost of travel to visit family and relatives during the holidays, 85% still think that they should still buy their host a gift for the holidays.

Gift purchases in transit!

From Sky Mall magazine to duty-free shops, airports provide consumers with many opportunities to shop while they travel. 33% of Americans who fly browse and have made purchases using these options as part of a flying experience and 49% browse but do not buy.

Methodology

The survey was conducted between October 8 and October 11, 2012, among 1,007 nationally representative Americans ages 18 and over, using an email invitation and an online survey. The magnitude of the variation is measurable and is affected by the number of interviews and the level of the percentages expressing the results. In this particular study, the chances are 95 in 100 that a survey result does not vary, plus or minus, by more than 3.1 percentage points from the result that would be obtained if interviews had been conducted with all persons in the universe represented by the sample. The margin of error for any subgroups will be slightly higher.
